Jungheinrich safety service

JUNGHEINRICH

Ensure everything runs smoothly.

With the Jungheinrich safety service.

Our professional and prompt safety service guides you through the statutory inspections for your forklift trucks, including the FEM 4.004 inspection, which can only be carried out by the manufacturer, as well as the exhaust emission and gas inspections. Our engineers are characterised by their high level of manufacturer expertise and special equipment for carrying out the inspections.

To ensure the operational readiness of your truck fleet, our safety service offers customised and flexible maintenance intervals. Let our after sales service guide you purposefully through the jungle of red tape and keep track of all important dates and upcoming exhaust emission inspections for you.

You will benefit from early detection and reduction of wear as well as the efficient prevention of repairs and downtime.

Reliability

A service as versatile as your business.

Our service employees actively support you in complying with all statutory requirements. Once the inspections have been completed, you will be provided with documented test results, which we will discuss with you in detail.

Ensuring truck availability

- Regular inspections of relevant parts ensure the long-term availability of your truck fleet.
- The regular inspection and maintenance of all wearing parts reduces costly truck breakdowns.

Legally compliant operation of your trucks

- Using its own diagnostic tools, Jungheinrich's safety service guarantees the reliability of your trucks.
- We work with you to ensure that all inspections are always valid and carried out in good time.

Safety

Best preconditions for working safely.

Minimise downtime with regular inspections of your trucks. Certified safety inspections will ensure that your urgently needed industrial trucks do not break down.

Enhanced safety in the warehouse

- Regular safety inspections to ensure that your forklift trucks are in perfect technical condition.
- Compliance with all statutory requirements to protect you as a company from the consequences of an official inspection in the event of personal injury.

Minimising safety risks

- Takeover of all statutory inspections such as FEM 4.004 or accident prevention, exhaust emission and gas.
- Inspection of all safety-relevant parts, such as brakes, mast and exhaust emissions to protect operators and employees.

Efficiency

Maximum performance with the most efficient service.

Whoever observes the regulations has the right of way. We ensure that you comply with your upcoming inspections and you take care of the essentials – the productivity and success of your company.

Compliance with the statutory inspection deadlines

- Monitoring of all prescribed inspection deadlines to ensure the long-term operational readiness of your truck fleet.
- Ensuring the validity of all inspections, among other things by taking responsibility for scheduling.

Speed and manufacturer expertise

- No one knows Jungheinrich forklift trucks like our engineers, so they are best equipped to carry out upcoming inspections quickly.
