Jungheinrich safety service

Professional safety for your truck fleet.

 JUNGHEINRICH

Always in safe hands

with the Jungheinrich safety service.

Our professional and prompt safety service handles the statutory inspections of your forklift trucks for you, including the FEM 4.004 inspection, which can only be conducted by the manufacturer, as well as the exhaust emissions and gas tests. Our engineers all have a high level of manufacturer expertise and carry specialist equipment for conducting the tests.

To ensure the operational readiness of your truck fleet, our safety service offers individually tailored, flexible maintenance intervals. Be guided purposefully through the jungle of red tape by our after sales service personnel who will keep track of all your important dates and upcoming exhaust emissions tests for you.

You will benefit from early detection and reduction of wear as well as the efficient prevention of repairs and downtime.

Reliability

A service as versatile as your business.

Our service employees will actively support you in complying with all statutory requirements. Once the inspections have been completed, you will receive the documented test results, which we will discuss with you in detail.

Ensuring truck availability:

- Regular inspections of relevant components ensure the long-term availability of your truck fleet.
- The regular inspection and maintenance of all wearing parts reduces costly truck downtime.

Legally compliant operation of your trucks:

- Using proprietary diagnostic tools, Jungheinrich's safety service guarantees the reliability of your trucks.
- We work with you to ensure that all inspections are always valid and carried out in good time.

Safety

Best conditions for working safely.

Minimise downtime with regular inspections of your trucks. Certified safety inspections will reliably prevent your vital forklift trucks experiencing downtime.

Increasing safety in the warehouse:

- Regular safety inspections ensure that your forklift trucks are in perfect working order.
- Compliance with all statutory requirements protects you as a company from the consequences of an official inspection in the event of personal injury.

Minimising safety risks:

- Takeover of all statutory inspections such as FEM 4.004 or accident prevention, exhaust emissions and gas tests.
- Inspection of all safety-relevant components, such as brakes, mast and exhaust emissions to protect operators and employees.

Efficiency

Maximum performance with the most efficient service.

Those who observe the regulations have priority. We ensure that you comply with upcoming inspections and you take care of the essentials: the productivity and success of your company.

Compliance with statutory inspection deadlines:

- All prescribed inspection deadlines are monitored to guarantee the long-term operational readiness of your truck fleet.
- The validity of all inspections is ensured by taking responsibility for scheduling.

Speed and manufacturer expertise:

- No one knows Jungheinrich forklift trucks better than our engineers, making them best equipped to carry out upcoming inspections efficiently.
